European exchange: Lerner College, University of Paris 1 Pantheon-Sorbonne sign agreement
UD’s Alfred Lerner College of Business and Economics and the University of Paris 1 Pantheon-Sorbonne have signed a general mutual cooperation agreement.

Wake-up call: Student projects combat snoozing at Meaningful Economics competition
The 26th annual Meaningful Economics and Entrepreneurship Competition was held over the past two weeks in Newark and Georgetown to give third through sixth grade students the chance to demonstrate their economic knowledge.

Lerner honors: Faculty and professional excellence honorees announced
The Lerner College of Business and Economics has announced the selection of faculty and professional excellence awards for 2011-12.

APICS Award: UD’s operations management area receives accolades
The APICS (Advancing Productivity, Innovation and Competitive Success) Brandywine Valley Chapter of the Association for Operations Management has selected the operations management area in the Department of Business Administration as company of the year.

Mentor Scholars celebration: Lerner hosts barbecue for Executive Mentor Scholars Program participants
Lerner College recently hosted a barbecue for participants in its Executive Mentor Scholars Program.

Startup success: T3D goes beyond Hen Hatch, places among top collegiate startups worldwide
T3D, a nanotechnology-based targeted drug delivery system with UD ties, participated in the 2012 Rice Business Plan Competition.

May 6: 2012 Walk MS included UD campus, Lerner student
The Delaware Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society along with the Newark and University of Delaware communities held its “2012 Walk MS: University of Delaware” event at UD’s Newark campus on May 6.

Popular economics: Lerner College alum co-authors best-selling economics textbook
Jay Squalli, a 2004 graduate of the University of Delaware, recently co-authored the Middle East edition of “Principles of Economics,” one of the best-selling textbooks in the field of economics.

Lerner student honors: Academic achievements awarded May 4
The Lerner College celebrated the academic excellence of its undergraduate students at the beginning of May. Award ceremonies by department were held in recognition of these achievements.

For complete coverage, visit Business Briefs online.